ELECTRIC MIRROR RECEIVES THIRTY-SECOND PATENT KEY UTILITY PATENT ON MIRROR TVs AWARDED

Electric Mirror is proud to announce the acquisition of their thirty-second patent from the United States Patent & Trademark Office. The patent covers lighted mirror TVs and mirror TVs. It is a key utility patent for the mirror TV industry.

Electric Mirror's patent abstract describes the product as such:

"A combination mirror and media display device assembly is provided. The combination mirror and media display device includes a mirror platform having a media display device viewing area and a media display device coupled to the mirror platform. The media display device is positioned to display images through the media display device viewing area."

With years of hard work and experience in the industry, this patent comes as a landmark achievement for the company. Electric Mirror strives to bring the best products to market and succeeds in being the leader in innovation for the hospitality and residential industry with its lighted mirror TVs and mirror TV designs.

Upon hearing the news of the awarded patent, CEO Jim Mischel said,

"It's all about creating the next best product for our clients. Our ongoing investment in research and development continues to keep us on the forefront of new product innovation. Congratulations to our engineer department on obtaining this important utility patent on our mirror TVs and lighted mirror TVs."

The patent (#8099247) is currently filed with the United States Patent & Trademark Office, and available for viewing on their website.
