Electric Mirror® Receives Patent for Framed Lighted Mirror TV Design

(Everett, Wash.) The United States Patent and Trademark Office continues to recognize and provide protection for Electric Mirror's designs, recently issuing a patent (U.S. RE 43,634 E) for its Framed Lighted Mirror TV design.

Electric Mirror's popular Framed Lighted Mirror, features a built-in, water-resistant 15.6" LED HDTV, hidden behind the mirror surface using Mirror TV Technology. The state-of-the-art design, protected by the patent, includes a band of frosted light around the border of the framed back-lit mirror. It is available in multiple sizes and four choices of wooden frames from Electric Mirror's Urban Profile™ collection, as well as over a 100 custom frame designs.

The patent is Electric Mirror's 31st design patent and is part of a larger expanding patent portfolio of nearly 50 patents and pending patents. "We're very pleased with the patent being issued," said Jim Mischel, a patent attorney and CEO of Electric Mirror®. "This patent has taken years to work its way through the system, but our patience has paid off. I'm very pleased that the U.S. Patent and Trade Mark office continues to recognize the design and engineering efforts of our people. This recognition fosters continued American job creation and investment in new designs and technologies."
